Overview

The Murray PHN region has an ageing population, with 22% of the population aged 65 years or older, which is higher than the Victorian state and national rates (both 17%) (By LGA; ABS, 2021). It is imperative that primary health care services have the capacity to deliver care for people with increasingly complex chronic conditions whilst screening and treating preventable disease progression.

This event highlights the importance of working as part of a multidisciplinary team to support patient care, featuring a fictional patient case study. Presenters from different disciplines will outline their management approaches for patients experiencing frailty, followed by a panel discussion.
